

Conflicts of Interest Statement

I have a diverse set of professional interests that allow me an opportunity to use my experience in a variety of settings. As such, I want to be transparent about which organizations I am a part of and from where my income is derived.

1) I am the Principal of Weill Consulting Group, a biomedical consultancy that provides consultation in advanced organ failure and organ transplantation. Part of my consulting activities are through agreements with hospitals to provide advice regarding the clinical, administrative, and financial management of transplant programs. The other part of my consulting practice involves serving as an expert in litigation matters. This work has been done primarily on behalf of defendants.

2) I am a transplant pulmonologist on staff at the Ochsner Medical Foundation in New Orleans.

3) Since 2012, I have Served as the Chair of the Scientific Advisory Board of the National Stone, Sand, and Gravel Association, an advocacy group for the aggregate industry.

4) I serve on the Scientific Advisory Board of GlycosBio, a food service company that develops and produces personalized medical food.

5) I serve as a Director of TransMedics, a company that has developed an organ care system for use in organ procurement.

6) I serve as a board member of Isidore Newman School, Elevate USA, NextGen Financial, KatyCares, and the Rosemary Beach Property Owners Association. I do not receive compensation for these roles.

7) My primary salary sources are the Weill Consulting Group, Ochsner Medical Foundation, and as a compensated member of corporate boards and/or scientific advisory boards. On occasion, I also receive fees and/or expenses for delivering lectures to a variety of organizations.

I have worked diligently to provide my opinions free of any bias, regardless of which entity seeks my service. Ultimately, the consumers of these opinions will be the final judges of whether I have been successful in doing so.

David Weill, M.D.
